

ManpowerGroup is a global leader in workforce solutions. We are representing our reputable client LEM – Bulgaria in the search for an experienced:

Test Laboratory Engineer - relocation in Sofia, Bulgaria

Key responsibilities:

- Activities related to calibration:
- Perform routine tests of mass production samples as per the company schedule
- Perform internal calibration of measuring equipment and reference devices
- Organizing pre-shipment preparation of the measuring equipment to external laboratories for periodical calibration and redirecting to the owners after receiving back
- Searching proper external laboratories for LEM devices calibration as per the company's rules and communicate with the responsible there to assure proper calibration process
- Estimate the results from calibration process according to equipment specification and company's requirements
- Operate with LEM metrological data base

Activities related to tests execution:

- Perform characterization tests based on requested tests plans for newly developed products, transferred production lines, after applied engineering changes;
- Perform measurement data processing, statistical analysis and issuing of test reports;
- Proactively communicate with the test requesters and technical experts;
- Maintain test equipment and setups in good order;
- Participate in continues improvement program.

Skills and Professional Background:

- Engineering University degree in Electronics / Electrical Engineering or similar;
- Previous experience on a similar position is advantage;
- Strong technical competency in electronic and/or electrical engineering;

- Good knowledge of electrical measuring techniques;
- Good level of English language;
- Dynamic, agile, hands-on, autonomous, committed to deadlines;
- Problem-solving oriented;
- Team worker with excellent communication skills;
- An advantage will be good knowledge in MS Excel and LabVIEW Core 1;

As we value our employees, we offer:

- Opportunity to be an essential part of a dynamic, successful, and continuously growing international company
- International knowledge transfer opportunities in other LEM locations
- Friendly and open environment
- State of the art office in attractive location
- Competitive salary & Bonus system
- Hybrid working model
- Flexible working time
- Additional health insurance + Dental & Optical care, Hospital & Pregnancy care
- Multisport card
- Food vouchers & Transport Allowance
- Referral program
- Paid holiday days - 25 days
- Career growth and development – internal and external trainings
- Free unlimited access to LinkedIn Learning Platform

If you feel the challenge, please, apply for this position by sending your detailed CV at hr@manpowersee.com stating the position you are applying for.